With less than two weeks to go until the start of the 2025 Rotax MAX Challenge Euro Trophy, anticipation is building fast.

The entry list has now over 250 drivers, highlighting the growing international buzz around the event. Drivers from more than 25 countries are gearing up to take on the legendary ProKart Raceland in Wackersdorf.

From April 23rd to 27th, the German circuit will host the long-awaited season opener, setting the stage for a thrilling weekend of racing action.

Looking at the numbers, the Senior MAX class leads the pack with 112 entries, followed by 61 in Junior MAX. The Mini MAX (German Cup) category has drawn 42 drivers, while 32 are set for DD2 and 7 in DD2 Masters.

ProKart Raceland is widely recognized as one of the premier karting venues in Europe. The track layout stretches 1,190 meters and features a mix of 11 corners—seven right-handers and four left-handers—designed to test precision, consistency, and racecraft.

Beyond the track itself, the venue offers top-tier facilities for teams and participants, including spacious paddock areas, well-equipped technical zones, and efficient logistical support. All of which make Wackersdorf the perfect launchpad for what promises to be an exciting new racing season.
